

Johnson Controls Global Workplace Solutions selected by Shell for new Global Framework Agreement for Facilities Management from 2013 onwards

LONDON, UK – September 18, 2013

Johnson Controls has been selected by Shell, the global energy company, for a Global Framework Agreement covering the delivery of facilities management services.

Johnson Controls will provide a wide range of services, including hard facilities management, for Shell's property estates in specific geographies. These contracts will support Shell in achieving its aspiration to be the world's most competitive and innovative energy company. Helping to improve Health & Safety; Operational Excellence and Management of Non-Technical Risk; achieving a Great Place to Work and Live; and Cost Reduction.

Johnson Controls Global Workplace Solutions President John Murphy said: "We are delighted to have been selected for this important agreement, which I believe reflects the quality of our support services offering and the strength of our growing relationship with Shell. We look forward to working closely with Shell to deliver high-quality services for its property estates and operations."
